

I am a software architect who decided to invest in coaching.

As my coach, Andrea looks out for and provides me with career opportunities. She keeps me focused on my goals and reminds me of how great I am – even when I think I'm not! She acts as a sounding board for my ideas and is my right-hand person when faced with difficult people and politically charged situations at work.

The greatest benefit I've received so far is the way I perceive myself. Andrea's coaching has enabled me to better understand myself. I now have much greater self-confidence and more effective soft skills.

N    Maiorano